The man ex-hibited a Murphy badge and a certificate of membership, and he also claimed to belong to the Methodist church. While in the emoloy of Mr. Torian he was a regular attendant at the churches of the neighborhood, and took an active part in the proceedings. He was a zealous advocate of temperance, and made efforts to spread the Murphy move-ment around him. Mr. Torian had great confidence in the man. On Sunday night the so-called Murphyite returned from church late, and instead of putting the horse which he had ridden to church in the stable, he remounted and rode away. He stopped at a neighbor's house and endeavored to induce a ellow-countryman to likewise steal a horse from his employer and go with him, but his proposition was rejected. Yesterday morning Mr. Torian missed his man and horse, city, but up to last night he had not been aprehended. The farmers in the vicinity of Horn Lake have determined to stop horse and mule stealing if possible, and even if it takes sudden and summary measures to accomplish the object.

A FAITHLESS TRAMP.

Bigley vs Douglass.

The Danger of Receiving Tramps Into Your Household-The Confidence Game, Followed by Robbery, Played on a Citizen.

Some time since Mr. W. R. Stewart, who resides on Court street, near Third, took pity on a tramp and gave him employment at his residence. He was well fed, clothed and paid, and had to do but little work. Mr. Stewart believed he was all right and had confidence in him. The tramp gave his name as Charles Waters, said he was from Natchez, Mississippi, where his brother resided. He knew Mr. Botto, and other well-known citizens of Natchez; nay, he seemed to have been, at some time, an intimate acquaintance of theirs. He was a man of some education, considerable information and of good address. He visited the Murphy move-ment meetings regularly and claimed to belong to that order. Last Sunday Mr. Stewart and family went to church, but when they re-turned, the tramp, Charles Waters, was nowhere to be seen. It was soon discovered that the house had been robbed by some-body, and suspicion at once rested upon Mr. Waters. He had carried off a lot of clothing and money belonging to a gentleman who boarded with Mr. Stewart and family, and had helped nimself generally to everything of value within reach. It is to be hoped that the confidence tramp will be arrested and brought

AN ELECTION LYRIC-TO THE CANDIDATES OF '78.

This is the land of all the earth
Where glorious is our pride of birth.
The English, Irish, Dutch and Spanish,
Russians, Prussians, negro and Danish,
And many others that are,
Compress our ways described. Compose our grand democracy.
And if within the distant years
Darwinian apes should prove our peers,
All hall to them! Our glorious State
Will share with them its high-tax rate
And other damnations rare
Not found in a theocracy.

This is the land where freemen dwell, This is the land where freemen dwell, Whose patriotic numbors swell The solid ranks of candidates, Each hoping that he emulates His noble stres by seeking To improve our statute laws; But the asinine confusion, 'Twixt the code and constitution, Show his talent for invention Supersedes his good intention.

And so the circuit courts are reeking With their records full of flaws,

This is the land of friendly smiles This is the land of friendly smiles.
Of winning ways and artful wiles.
When candidates are on the roam
And live election days have come;
Then of the greatest consequence
Become the pleblan masses.
The aspirant then hands 'round the beer,—
Save where the Murphys interfere—
And his gental kindness and grace
Flags not—until he's lost the race,
And finds he's wasted eloquence
Upon the lower classes.

This is the land that once so well This is the land that once so well Could boast of wisdom's magic spell, When learned counsel graced the bar, And merit was the beacon star

That shed its brilliant rays
In luster on the lawyers name;
Now ignorance, stolid, shows its face Embodied in the "shyster" race, That hang around each courthouse door, Whose highest aim is but to bore, And in pointless speeches bray—Unconscious of contempt or shame. Unconscious of contempt or shame. BARTLETT, May 13, 1878.

St. Patrick's School Picnic. The grand annual picnic for the benefit St. Patrick's school takes place to-day at Estival park. The managers are confident their schoolhouses, provided they can receive from the extensive arrangements already the consent of the principals and the super-intendent, such exhibition not to be given at tickets disposed of, to make to-day's celebra the expense of the board.

The purchasing committee was authorized to procure diplomas to be presented to the graduates.

Estival Park Concert. On Sunday night last a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen appeared at Estival park and enjoyed the charming musical en-tertainment presented. The great attractions were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Farmer, The former rendered delicious music on th flute, an instrument of which he is a master Mrs. Farmer (formerly one of the Queen Sis-ters) is an excellent vocalist, At Estival park she at once sang herself into the good graces of the audience, and deservedly re-ceived repeated tributes of applause. She rendered The May Song, I'll Follow The I would respectfully recommend that the further use in the public schools of Holmes's series of readers be dispensed with, and that either M'Guffie's or the Independent readers be substituted therefor. Also that Stephens's history of the United States be substituted for Holmes's history of the United States.

These preparations forecast the certain triumph of the party of reform, economy and good government, and the extermination of the last vestiges of Radcalism, which, with its cormorant hordes so long preyed upon her weal and plundered her prosperity. So far the only jar occurs in the mass-meeting held in Crittenden county on the fourth instant, where as is shown by a card which appeared in a recent issue of the APPEAL, and signed by a number of prominent and influential Democrats, its purposes were in the main defeated, and a final ballot upon the selection of senatorial delegates prevented by the Radicals forcing themselves into the proceeding and coalescing with a minority of the Democrats, and by virtue of this shameless coalition the latter claim the election of a set of sham and spurious delegates to the senatorial convention, favoring the aspirations of Major R. F. Crittenden. We regret this, and feel confidence that the wrong will be cor-rected by the convention in admitting to its counsels delegates that will reflect the sentiment of the meeting, and give expression to the views and wishes of the Democracy of the county. We hesitate not in asserting our conviction, based as it is upon numerous communications from and personal interviews with leading Democrats who participated in the meeting until its dis rupture by Radical accessions, that Major l F. Earle was the choice of the meeting by a decisive majority had a ballot been taken. That Major Earle would make other than a capable, faithful and vigilant officer, is negatived by the antecedents of his private life and public services. He has silled many resistance of trust and from these filled many positions of trust, and from these retired without taint or blemish upon his personal integrity or official conduct. The rec-ord spoke the vindication of the public offi-cer. After months of arduous labor he has just emerged from a prosecution the most unsparing and merciless, of a prominent county official, charged with heavy embezzlements of public funds, whom, having convicted, he forced to resignation and drove from office in merited disgrace, punishing the plunderer reheving the plundered—the approved cleanser of the Augean stables. Can our Democratic friends find better material out of which to construct a model State senator?
